

Let's Collaborate

Spectrum Institute invites individuals to volunteer, college students to intern, and organizations to collaborate with us in promoting the rights of adults with developmental disabilities on three projects.

- * Mental Health Accessibility
- * Guardianship Reform
- * Capacity to Love

Synergistic efforts can be much more effective. Please contact us to discuss ways we can work together to advance these causes.

Mental Health Accessibility

Join us in promoting the right of adults with developmental disabilities to prompt and equal access to effective mental health therapy. There are consequences to the individual when it is denied or delayed and there should be consequences to those who create barriers to such services.

Guardianship Reform

Join us in promoting alternatives to guardianship for adults with developmental disabilities. Courts, attorneys, and capacity assessment professionals should be required to seriously explore supported decision-making and powers of attorney. Guardianship should be a last resort.

Capacity to Love

Join us in promoting the social and sexual rights of adults with developmental disabilities. Everyone has the capacity to love in some manner. These rights are being routinely denied by courts, guardians, and care providers. Effective and appropriate sex education and counseling are needed.
